

Q54. Which of the following software test methods is performed to verify whether changes made for software maintenance are not affecting other portions of the software?

a) Integration test

b) Operation test

c) Regression test

d) System test