

Q70. Which of the following is the salami technique used in computer crime?

- a) Illegally intercepting audio and/or data being transmitted or received on a network
- b) Secretly gaining access to a part of the line to steal someone's password and/or ID and to steal data
- c) Secretly searching for information left inside or around a computer after a program is executed, for the purpose of obtaining necessary information
- d) Stealing from multiple assets little by little, to a degree that the illegal action does not come to the surface and become noticeable