Q24. Which of the following is an appropriate description of memory interleaving?

a) Compensating the difference between the access time of main memory and that of hard disk.

b) Dividing main memory into several banks and speeding up access to sequential addresses in memory.

c) Updating cache and main memory simultaneously.

d) Writing data not needed in cache to main memory when fetching new data to cache memory.